In Memory of Mr. Joel Cartier

"His Legacy"

I once knew a man that understood:
he understood so many things
so many things, more than I could ever imagine.

His understanding plunged the depths of the deepest ocean and ebbed to the shallows of the softest, whispering creek.
His understanding sprouted from the earth and reached for the life-giving sun.

In his smile you could feel his warmth,
the warmth of family and love and friends and life:
his warmth embraced all no matter what age, race, gender, or religion.

In his eyes he held the magic of all Gods creation, and he gave thanks with all glory and honor just by living the way he lived:
pure, honest, and true.

He was pure in his love for his family, nothing was more important.
He was honest in his thoughts and actions and was revered for his loyalty.
He was true in his love for God and every living and non-living thing on Gods earth.

He understood Gods gifts, . . .
crisp, cool, crunching strolls in an autumn woods, soft settling snow that created a magic beauty on the limbs of the leafless trees, rapidly, running rivers that personified Gods power and beauty,
and, most of all, himself.

He understood his impact on others: children, adults, friends, and family and understood the impact of others on him.
He understood the importance of work and play,
and play he did with just his sneakers and a ball.

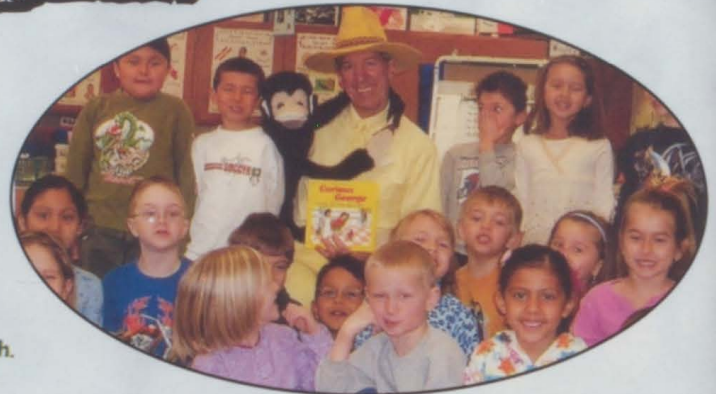

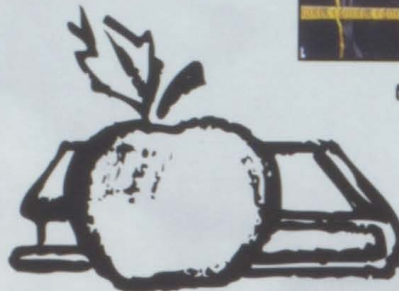

His understanding helped so many others because he shared his gift.
His understanding is his legacy
as much as his long, happy stride,
the magic of his eyes, and the warmth of his smile.

I once knew a man that understood:
he understood so many things
so many things, and when I think of him I feel him teaching me, helping me to also understand.

In memory Of Grant Lardo

For Grant
 (Who Stopped Telling Jokes
 A lifetime too soon)
 By: Mr. Porter

So soon to go;
 So short you stay.
 Too quick your wit
 to go away
 from dare us hear what we dare not say when said by you
 we laughed all day.
 Too soon to go;
 too short your stay.
 So soon your wit
 has gone away.

Stick no pins in Heaven's ceiling.
 There's no time-out by Heaven's door.
 Remember us who hid
 our feelings?
 All the truth be told, we'll miss you more.

Big baggy shorts
 riding low behind lots of underwear showing all the time that curious look from an inquisitive mind
 examining, touching,
 everything you find.
 So soon to leave;
 so short your stay
 Too quick that mind
 to go away.

Stick no pins in Heaven's ceiling
 Just spread your Sleeping bag on Heaven's floor.
 The secret kiddo--
 about my feelings:
 All the truth be told I loved you more.

My Dearest Grant,

Where do I begin...?

I try and imagine each day the fine young man that you would be today. No doubt I would be extremely proud of you. I can't help but wonder what your plans would be after graduation...? Would you be going off to college to be a doctor, lawyer, or even a scientist? You always did have an inquisitive mind that never quit thinking. Whatever the course your journey may have been, I would be proud of you. You're in my thoughts today and always my "Little Man".

I miss you terribly.

What I remember most about Seymour is ...

I will always remember all the Diversity meetings, they were always so much fun. I will always remember cheering really loud at the basketball games. I miss and always remember the staff and the librarians.

Cassandra Martinez

What I am going to miss most about High School is...

Eric Christenson

To be honest, I'm going to miss pretty much everything. Top Gun Team's NHD project with running water, Mrs. Koehler and Mr. Brice, the banana peel luge, onze onze in French class, Literary Family Feud, cheering wildly at soccer games, counting awkward moments in Swett's class, Seven Ate Nine, swearing John back into the Top Gun Team, the B.C. vs. St. John's classic, the Algebrats, Gilded Age rap parities, Mrs. Finn and basically everyone I know so... everything

The funniest thing that happened to me in High School ...

Was when I went to a dance performance and we (the team) sang church camp songs and sang it in funny voices. I think it made the coaches mad, but it was the best time ever! Did I mention we did this at the game in front of everyone? Well it was.

Sadi Dudley

In the memory of Taylor Nelson

Taylor was a great asset to the band. His joyful spirit was contagious and he was always there for his fellow band members. He will be someone that lives on in our memories forever. Try to think of him as you play or listen to music; one of his loves was a good song.

Mr. Keyzers
Band Teacher

Taylor was a bright, talented, personable young man who loved life. His enthusiasm fueled his wide interests and deep bonds with friends and family.

Taylor planned to attend UW Superior and get a degree in the Social Sciences. Because he loved learning, he filled his schedule with classes and opted not to take study halls. As a result, he had already earned 21 credits by the end of his junior year.

He was a solid student who earned a 20 on his ACT, but his interests were broad. He loved music and band as well as travel. Playing board games, chatting with loved ones, and completing wood working projects kept him busy. Although he loved animals, cars, and plays, most of all he loved people, no matter who they were.

Taylor is sadly missed by countless family and friends.

Taylor,
You will always be with me. I miss you, and that smile that you always wore. I'll never forget your happy attitude and the way that you could make people smile and feel better. You may not be with us, but your spirit and memories still are. I miss you and you will never be forgotten. Take care of yourself and watch over the rest of us. You were a great friend. Thanks for everything!

Alison Schroeder

How the bowling team remembers Taylor Nelson:

- Taylor was always smiling
- Taylor was a funny guy
- Taylor was always making jokes.
- Taylor was a true friend
- Taylor was a great teammate.
- The one time Taylor fell into the gutter and cut his hand.
- The bounce in Taylor's bowling approach.
- Taylor was always talking smack to the opposing bowlers to distract them from their game.
