REMEMBER

Mr. Mueller turtled my backpack during lunch and taped
it together.

~ Mariah Webster

Singing in choir
and seeing everyone
sing along to an old song and knowing all the words.

~ Jade Lynn Cohan

Meeting new people and having fun in class.

~ Cody Wilson

My favorite high school memory was when Sydney Schilcher got hypnotized and couldn't snap out of it. The hypnotist thought he woke her out of it but he didn't so she ended up riding the senior float with us still hypnotized!

~ Abigail Chmelka

My favorite memory of high school was when I put Tyler Spranger's cell phone in his pop-tart wrapper and he threw it away and had to buy a new phone.

~ Jennifer Wickesberg

Before I would be in the back of class being all quiet. Now during dances I'll be up there 'til the end.

~ Alexander Mueller

My favorite memory in high school was when I first started wrestling my Junior year and all the guys in the school told me I couldn't do it and I proved them wrong and got a couple wins.

~ Samantha Powell

My favorite memory was pranking Mr. Mueller during Homecoming. Renee Janz and I bubble-wrapped his floor and chair, had streamers and balloons everywhere.

Mr. Flaherty and Mr. Zahn were in on it and let us do it! The next day he called us to the office, made us wait, what seemed to be forever, then he finally called us to his office. Renee and I were laughing so bad because of it. Mueller sat down on his chair, rolled over the bubble wrap, stood up and told us that he was having a hard time keeping a straight face and that we did a good job, shook our hands, gave us a soda, and let us go back to class.

~ Dana Wienleweki

W H E N . . .

My favorite high school memory was from sophomore year in Mrs. Kaminaki's lit and comp class. Ryan Romback was giving a presentation in front of the entire class when he flipped to the next slide on his powerpoint not realizing what it said. The whole class busted out laughing at what it said and Ryan had no idea why we were all laughing. When he finally realized that his slide on the powerpoint said something outrageously embarrassing, he immediately got red in the face and explained it must of been Phil (his brother) that changed the slide when he was working on it at home; as Keenan Moehring was sitting in the back of the class laughing so hard that Ryan had no idea it had been him not Phil!

~ Paige Bunkelman

When Marquese woke up from a nightmare in English and yelled "No!" Come to find out, the nightmare involved a fish being dropped in a bowl.

~ Jack Krull

My favorite memory was during soccer season. We just got done with practice and Coach J was packing his bag up and then he pulled out a pair of ladies black silk underwear. Nobody knew whose it was or how they got in there. We still make fun of him for it.

~ Bryanna Wolft

When Brandon Berg and I made a video for history, it had Andy Helein in a bikini on it.

~ Colton VerVoort

In Geometry, Meesener had just said, "Anyone who turtled another person's backpack would get sent to the office." So I turtled my own backpack, threw it at Kody Kominowski, then yelled, "Kody, you turtled my backpack!" Meesener almost kicked him out of the class before I fessed up.

~ Nicholas Banker

My favorite memory is the soccer boys in the locker room after practice or games. Doesn't get much funnier than that...

I said too much!

~ Eric Elbe

In the Green Bay tournament for soccer last year, when we took revenge on Grafton, a deer ran on the fields in the middle of all the games and the softball bus drove past on the highway cheering for us and the whole soccer complex could hear them!

Enjoy Life!

When you were a young quiet little boy always busy thinking or building something, your smiles filled our hearts with joy. Singing a song and building you dream, playing sports and enjoying your ice cream, love and pray each day, they go fast, so it seems. Take time to hike, bike, and skip a rock across a stream. You never know how long the journey may be. There will be many roads to choose ahead to travel; some roads paved, others rough, some only gravel. Be patient, thoughtful and kind along the way. Life is not about possessions but how you touch someone each and every day. Your special smile will make their day as your journey through life offers so many lessons. You will see that your life itself was a special gift from God, your mom and me. Love You Always,
Joe, Jane, Lindsey & Drew

Evan Morrissey
